

The Messenger.

FRIDAY, AUG. 7, 1874.

THE STORY OF A SERENADE.

Bob Denmore, lounging on the college campus, heard his name spoken, and looked up, to see a couple of students passing, but neither of them knew him.

"That fellow from Boston," said Bob, "I'd like to pull his nose for him, by Jove. The impudent conceited puppy."

"That fellow from Boston" wasn't a very particular friend of Bob's. Bob had been quite intimate with a certain pretty maiden with the brightest of mischievous eyes, and the most bewitching of smiles, but this Boston gentleman came. Since his advent Bob's star had been waning. The girl of the bright eyes had transferred her bewitching smiles to the Boston gentleman, and as a natural consequence, Bob felt rather sore over the matter.

"So you think I cut Denmore out, do you?" Mr. St. Clair was saying, as they passed Bob. There was a kind of soft congratulation in the way in which he said it, that made Bob feel decidedly pugnacious.

"Of course you have," answered Mr. St. Clair's companion. "Miss Lucy Osgood hasn't a smile for you any more. Before you came Denmore got all the smiles in that direction."

"I wonder how he takes it?" asked St. Clair.

"I don't know," answered his friend. "I don't know whether he was earnest, or whether his affair with Miss Lucy was merely a flirtation. If it was a flirtation merely, he probably doesn't lay it to heart much."

"Probably not," answered St. Clair. "But then, after all, it must make a fellow feel duced cheap to see some one else step in and 'cut him out,' even if he isn't earnest. One would have inferred from Mr. St. Clair's self-satisfied tone that he didn't know what was to be cut out."

"The conceited fellow," exclaimed Bob. "I'll be even with you yet, Mr. St. Clair. Just make a memo. ram of that."

Now Bob had never heard a sentimental, as the saying goes, among college boys, for Lucy Osgood. He liked to call them to your own time; liked to take her out riding, and to dance with her. Bob had never been in earnest. He was glad now that he had never been. All that felt hurt was his—

Bob's duty as a good man for is any, I suppose. This heart was sound. "But as Mr. St. Clair had said, it pained him to think that one had more influence over the capricious Miss Lucy than he had."

"I'll show them that I'm not heart broken," said Bob.

And shortly after that he had a fine chance of doing so. There was a party in town, and Lucy and that fellow from Boston, and Bob went there.

Bob was among the gayest. He didn't try to avoid Lucy in the least. He laughed and chatted with her in his easy way, the same as he did with the other girls, and no one would ever have dreamed that there had been any kind of animosity between them. Bob was a handsome fellow, and one of the most popular boys in the college. He played Lucy to see how little he seemed to take her rejection to heart, and so she tried to be rather more winning than she had been of late. She didn't like to think that her admirers could shake off her influence so easily. It didn't reflect much credit on her fascinating powers.

But Bob wasn't to be caught with chaff again. He was so attentive to the wall flowers, if there were any, as to be Lucy.

He was sitting with her one time, in the shade of a rose vine, when two gentlemen came on the steps, talking.

One of them was Mr. St. Clair. "So you thought the little Osgood had snubbed me, eh?" he was saying, when Bob and Lucy first saw them. "Not any, thank you," said St. Clair, laughing lightly. "She's a pretty little girl, but not exactly my style. When I saw you young lady the honor of making her Mr. St. Clair she must have been more attracted than Miss Lucy does. Oh—with a yawn, 'she'll do to flirt with. One's got to have some thing to amuse himself, you know.'"

Bob saw Lucy's face grow as red as the roses were beside her. "The fool!" she exclaimed, as St. Clair passed into the house. "I wonder if he thinks I care a pin for him? He just late him."

Lucy was ready to cry with vexation.

"Oh, I wouldn't mind it in the least," said Bob, "if he were giving me a friendly advice. You'll get over it."

Lucy flashed an indignant look at him, and then she said, "I'm not going to let him see me any more."

Bob felt pretty satisfied with the turn affairs had taken. He had showed both St. Clair and Lucy that his heart was as whole as ever, and that he was not at all hurt by their flirtation had about come to an end.

A day or two afterward he found out that St. Clair was intending to serenade Miss Lucy that evening. Bob was a little disappointed, for he had been so well satisfied with the turn of affairs, he wanted to take some of St. Clair's chaff out of him, in a way that he would remember, and he fancied that the right chance was about to present itself.

He called at the Osgood mansion, and interviewed the chamber maid that afternoon. When he went away he looked particularly happy.

Night came. All was still about the Osgood mansion, when Mr. St. Clair, with his guitar under his arm, came down the quiet street, and halted before it. He looked up to the second story, where a light was burning, and then descended over the fence, and wended his way through the garden, until he was under the window.

Then he began to play. He played one piece and then listened intently.

There was a sound above as if some one were listening to the window. Mr. St. Clair heard the sound and looked up.

"Oh, come, thy window!" he sang in a rather pleading tone, voice, and then, as he could be seen just over the edge of the window sill, he went on with the serenade. There were three or four verses of it, very sentimental ones they were too. The fellow from Boston began to be rather hoarse before he had finished them.

"I'm greatly obliged to you, Meister St. Clair," said a voice from the window overhead. "That is very fine poetry indeed. But I'll prefer to have you sing the one which you sang last time, for it was that one which I liked best."

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

General John T. Averill. General Averill, our present representative in Congress, is a gentleman of culture and refinement, and whose personal character, integrity and manliness no word can truthfully be said. He is highly respected by all who know him for his courtesy and his many amiable qualities. As a business man, also, he is above reproach. He is possessed of a high sense of honor, and would not knowingly wrong any human being. While his personal characteristics are such as to commend him to our consideration as a man, his public services have not been of a nature to warrant the people of this district in re-electing him to Congress.

Then he began to play. He played one piece and then listened intently.

There was a sound above as if some one were listening to the window. Mr. St. Clair heard the sound and looked up.

"Oh, come, thy window!" he sang in a rather pleading tone, voice, and then, as he could be seen just over the edge of the window sill, he went on with the serenade. There were three or four verses of it, very sentimental ones they were too. The fellow from Boston began to be rather hoarse before he had finished them.

"I'm greatly obliged to you, Meister St. Clair," said a voice from the window overhead. "That is very fine poetry indeed. But I'll prefer to have you sing the one which you sang last time, for it was that one which I liked best."

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

General John T. Averill. General Averill, our present representative in Congress, is a gentleman of culture and refinement, and whose personal character, integrity and manliness no word can truthfully be said. He is highly respected by all who know him for his courtesy and his many amiable qualities. As a business man, also, he is above reproach. He is possessed of a high sense of honor, and would not knowingly wrong any human being. While his personal characteristics are such as to commend him to our consideration as a man, his public services have not been of a nature to warrant the people of this district in re-electing him to Congress.

Then he began to play. He played one piece and then listened intently.

There was a sound above as if some one were listening to the window. Mr. St. Clair heard the sound and looked up.

"Oh, come, thy window!" he sang in a rather pleading tone, voice, and then, as he could be seen just over the edge of the window sill, he went on with the serenade. There were three or four verses of it, very sentimental ones they were too. The fellow from Boston began to be rather hoarse before he had finished them.

"I'm greatly obliged to you, Meister St. Clair," said a voice from the window overhead. "That is very fine poetry indeed. But I'll prefer to have you sing the one which you sang last time, for it was that one which I liked best."

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

General John T. Averill. General Averill, our present representative in Congress, is a gentleman of culture and refinement, and whose personal character, integrity and manliness no word can truthfully be said. He is highly respected by all who know him for his courtesy and his many amiable qualities. As a business man, also, he is above reproach. He is possessed of a high sense of honor, and would not knowingly wrong any human being. While his personal characteristics are such as to commend him to our consideration as a man, his public services have not been of a nature to warrant the people of this district in re-electing him to Congress.

Then he began to play. He played one piece and then listened intently.

There was a sound above as if some one were listening to the window. Mr. St. Clair heard the sound and looked up.

"Oh, come, thy window!" he sang in a rather pleading tone, voice, and then, as he could be seen just over the edge of the window sill, he went on with the serenade. There were three or four verses of it, very sentimental ones they were too. The fellow from Boston began to be rather hoarse before he had finished them.

"I'm greatly obliged to you, Meister St. Clair," said a voice from the window overhead. "That is very fine poetry indeed. But I'll prefer to have you sing the one which you sang last time, for it was that one which I liked best."

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

General John T. Averill. General Averill, our present representative in Congress, is a gentleman of culture and refinement, and whose personal character, integrity and manliness no word can truthfully be said. He is highly respected by all who know him for his courtesy and his many amiable qualities. As a business man, also, he is above reproach. He is possessed of a high sense of honor, and would not knowingly wrong any human being. While his personal characteristics are such as to commend him to our consideration as a man, his public services have not been of a nature to warrant the people of this district in re-electing him to Congress.

Then he began to play. He played one piece and then listened intently.

There was a sound above as if some one were listening to the window. Mr. St. Clair heard the sound and looked up.

"Oh, come, thy window!" he sang in a rather pleading tone, voice, and then, as he could be seen just over the edge of the window sill, he went on with the serenade. There were three or four verses of it, very sentimental ones they were too. The fellow from Boston began to be rather hoarse before he had finished them.

"I'm greatly obliged to you, Meister St. Clair," said a voice from the window overhead. "That is very fine poetry indeed. But I'll prefer to have you sing the one which you sang last time, for it was that one which I liked best."

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

General John T. Averill. General Averill, our present representative in Congress, is a gentleman of culture and refinement, and whose personal character, integrity and manliness no word can truthfully be said. He is highly respected by all who know him for his courtesy and his many amiable qualities. As a business man, also, he is above reproach. He is possessed of a high sense of honor, and would not knowingly wrong any human being. While his personal characteristics are such as to commend him to our consideration as a man, his public services have not been of a nature to warrant the people of this district in re-electing him to Congress.

Then he began to play. He played one piece and then listened intently.

There was a sound above as if some one were listening to the window. Mr. St. Clair heard the sound and looked up.

"Oh, come, thy window!" he sang in a rather pleading tone, voice, and then, as he could be seen just over the edge of the window sill, he went on with the serenade. There were three or four verses of it, very sentimental ones they were too. The fellow from Boston began to be rather hoarse before he had finished them.

"I'm greatly obliged to you, Meister St. Clair," said a voice from the window overhead. "That is very fine poetry indeed. But I'll prefer to have you sing the one which you sang last time, for it was that one which I liked best."

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy. When will you be at her a comin' again, darlin'?"

"Which of the two?" asked St. Clair, more forcibly than politely.

"Is it who I love, you're asking?" responded the voice from the window. "Why, I'm your own dear friend, Budget McShaghenessy

The Messenger.

FRIDAY, AUG. 7, 1914.

LOCAL NEWS.

Jud Greeley has again shipped a second clerk on the Nellie Kent.

The State Board of Health visited the Prison on Tuesday, to ascertain as to its sanitary condition.

Prof. Thompson of the State University occupies the desk at the Myrtle street church next Sunday.

For sale—A good long pair of antlers; also a good boat chain. Inquire at this office.

Physicians report more sickness than usual, but perhaps no more than an average at this season of the year.

The excursion to White Bear Lake yesterday by the Minneapolis and St. Paul was the largest since the summer season.

The circus is to be exhibited one block west of the Court house today, instead of on the Wisconsin side, as first announced.

D. W. Armstrong, agent for the American Express Co., has moved his office to the new building, next to Dr. Pratt's residence.

The water for the St. Croix is low, that the Nellie Kent frequently has considerable difficulty in getting up to the falls.

Owners of dogs are not encouraged to pay the dog tax since only the regularly licensed owners are the victims of the dog law.

The Sportsman's club offers a reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of any person or persons guilty of poisoning any licensed dog within the city during the past 30 days.

At a meeting of the Prison Inspectors yesterday Rev. J. H. Macomber was elected Chaplain. W. W. Williams was confirmed as Deputy Warden, and Frank E. Chase appointed book keeper.

Communism—If four young men go fishing at Bagley Lake and returning the same day after inhaling the contents of an eight gallon keg of Milwaukee beer, how many fish did they catch?

Lost. Left on the cars between Stillwater and White Bear Lake on the 6th inst. A WATER PROOF CAME.

The finder will be rewarded by leaving it at the store of WHEELER BROS.

Two men, Mike Kelly and a Mr. Lamb, became involved in a quarrel in St. Paul a few days ago, but because their wives could not agree, they both fled to the city of Minneapolis.

The key to the mystery of the quarrel was found in the fact that the wife of Kelly was a woman of the name of Lamb.

In his New Store, John N. Darns, the deservingly popular merchant, is already crowded with business. His old customers have found their way to his new store, and showing that courteous treatment, reasonable dealing and reasonable prices are appreciated by the public.

Mr. Darns' facilities for the transaction of business are much greater than ever before, while as to the prices we all know John will not be undersold. In garden vegetables, etc., he knows what his customers want, and always keeps a full stock, choice and fresh.

Amusements. Stanley's Musical troupe, composed for the most part of young people, who met with such a favorable reception a few weeks ago, will appear again at Hersey & Staples' Hall next Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

We are convinced that the company has been greatly improved and enlarged since its first appearance. The organization embraces some fine talent, and we doubt not those who attend will experience as much pleasure and satisfaction as those entertained by a traveling troupe.

Base Ball Notes. The St. Croix club of this city played a match game with the Orientals of Hudson last Saturday, on the grounds of the latter club, winning by a score of 48 to 26. With Easton made the cleanest score, having 8 runs and 1 out.

The return game will be played in this city ere long, but the day has not yet been fixed.

An invitation has been extended to the Metropolitan club of St. Paul to play a game with the St. Croix boys at the park grounds on the 14th, during the summer meeting of the Park Association.

The Board of Education had a meeting yesterday to open bids for the construction of an addition to the new school house. John Green's bid ($1,250) was the only one received, and he was awarded the contract.

Voted. To advertise for proposals for constructing a similar building for the Central School. Bids to be received up to next Thursday noon.

Voted. To construct a sewer through the Schulenburg school grounds, and to relocate and repair the building.

The Clerk was authorized to contract with Isaac Staples for 200 cords of pine shingles for the new school building at $1.40 per cord, delivered.

The following is a verbatim copy of the letter of the Secretary of the Union baseball club of St. Paul, declining to play with the St. Croix club of this city July 4:

Yell Neph. Not get on your feet for nothing, we might have as much with you fellows.

We want to please you have to go to Minneapolis on the 12th train and so we could not help it. But I don't see any reason why you get on your feet for nothing.

Minneapolis boys accepted our challenge first and it was no more than right. You should have played them first. You don't like it you can jump it as you wish.

The Mike and the Levee and the fat woman on the Levee. See the Union P. B. Club.

Letter to the Editor. L. Horne & Son.

Another Convict Escapes.

A BROWN MAN, an escaped convict, was seen in the city on Tuesday.

Last Monday morning, when the guards at the Prison were unlocking the cells to let the convicts out to their daily rations, one cell, No. 122, in which was an occupant the night before, was found empty.

Charles Clifton of Hennepin county, who had been assigned to that cell six months before, was missing. Search was at once made for him, but he had escaped.

At the bottom of the cell door is an aperture 9 inches high by 12 or 13 inches wide, through which food is passed to the convict in his cell.

Through this hole, which is an inch or two higher than the other cell doors, Clifton undoubtedly crawled.

Watching his opportunity he probably made his way to the rear end of the bars, which in a single place are 6-8 inches apart.

Being now in the yard, and the wall guards being asleep in their beds, to scale the board fence was a work of small magnitude to a man who had crawled through a hole less than seven inches one way.

A liberal reward has been offered for his apprehension and return, and Warden Reed is quite hopeful that this bird has been caught for good.

He with a comrade made his escape two or three months ago by crawling through the sewer, but was detected in a pile of boards under the Prison wall, and returned.

It is interesting to note that when Clifton was taken to the Prison he was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat.

In his cell, and unless he had secured some clothing he must have gone into the hall and crawled through the bars.

Among the papers, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Terrific Storm.

One of the most terrific storms ever known on Lake St. Croix prevailed last Tuesday night.

We have heard of no serious damage to shipping, though one or two boats were in great peril for a time.

The Nellie Kent, which reached this city shortly after 10 o'clock, proceeded down the lake, reaching Hudson about 11, when there being indications of an unusually severe storm, it was ordered that the boat should be put in a safe place.

At about 11 o'clock the storm burst forth with terrific violence, throwing the life boats, chairs, etc., from the hurricane deck into the water.

The excursion broke broke loose, with Capt. Riley on board, and drifted away. Soon after the lines which held the boat to the shore snapped, when the steamer drifted down stream, and was carried into the harbor.

Life preservers were brought out and quickly put in place. The men having four, Steward Mullen found a pop bottle, and putting therein a large roll of currency, carefully corked and labeled it, so that if he went to the "demolition house" his family might not be left wholly disconsolate.

But at last the boat was run fast into the Wisconsin shore, and again made fast until the storm had subsided.

There seems to be a well organized band of dog poisoners in our midst. The police were at first accused of being accessories, at least, but from the fact that with but few if any exceptions the dogs slain are those of your friends, and not the dogs of the owners have paid their dog tax, it is evident that the police are not the guilty parties.

Poisoned man has been discovered shortly after he must have gone into the hall and crawled through the bars.

Among the papers, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be used in killing the cell guard.

Clifton was wearing a pair of striped pants and a coat, and a something concealed in his pockets, was a piece of paper, resembling a potato-masher, filled with sharp pointed stings or pieces of iron, intended to be

The Messenger.

SEWARD & TAYLOR,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY MORNING
AT TWO DOLLARS PER ANNUM
IN ADVANCE.

NEWSPAPER DECISIONS.

1. Any person who takes a paper regularly from the postoffice—whether directed to his name or another or whether he has subscribed or not—is responsible for the payment.
2. If a person orders his paper delivered by mail he must pay all arrears or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether the paper is taken from the office or not.
3. The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the postoffice, or removing and leaving them uncollected, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

Republican Ward Caucuses.

The Republicans of the several wards of the city of Stillwater are requested to meet on THURSDAY EVENING, SEPT. 3, at 8 o'clock, at the places named below, for the purpose of selecting delegates to the Republican County Convention, to be held Sept. 7, 1874.

The several wards are entitled to representation by delegates in the County Convention as follows:

First Ward, 3; Second Ward, 6; Third Ward, 7.

PLACES OF MEETING.

First Ward—At the Court House.

Second Ward—At the Engine House.

Third Ward—At the House of the Boat Shop.

By order of the Republican City Committee.

D. M. Sams, Chm.

Stillwater, Aug. 21, 1874.

REPUBLICAN CO. CONVENTION.

The Republican County Convention for the County of Washington will be held at the Court House in the City of Stillwater, on MONDAY, the 7th day of September, 1874, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of electing delegates to the State Convention to be held at Minneapolis on the 9th day of September, 1874, and also electing delegates to the Congressional Convention to be held at Minneapolis, September 10th, 1874, and for such other business as may come before the Convention. The appointment of delegates which has been made upon is based upon the following vote for C. K. Davis in 1873, one delegate for each Forty (40) votes of a major fraction thereof, under which the votes will be allowed the following delegates:

Alton..... 2 2d ward..... 6

Bayview..... 2 3d ward..... 6

Central Grove..... 2 Stillwater..... 6

Denmark..... 1 Marine..... 6

Grant..... 1 Newport..... 6

Lakeland..... 2 Oakdale..... 6

Stillwater City..... 2 Orono..... 6

1st ward..... 2 Woodbury..... 6

By order of Republican City Committee.

FAYETTE MARSH, Chairman.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

A Republican State Convention will be held at the Academy of Music, in Minneapolis, on Wednesday, the 9th day of September, 1874, at 12 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating one candidate for Chief Justice, and one candidate for State Judge of the Supreme Court of this State.

The number of delegates entitled to sit in the Convention will be as follows:

Alton..... 2 White Lake..... 1

Anoka..... 2 Morris..... 1

Becker..... 2 Mower..... 1

Benton..... 2 Murray..... 1

Big Lake..... 2 Nicollet..... 1

Blue Earth..... 2 Otter Tail..... 1

Brown..... 2 Otsego..... 1

Carlton..... 2 Pine..... 1

Center..... 2 Polk..... 1

Chippewa..... 2 Ramsey..... 1

Chicago..... 2 Rice..... 1

Clay..... 2 Rock..... 1

Cottonwood..... 2 St. Louis..... 1

Crow Wing..... 2 St. Peter..... 1

Dakota..... 2 Sherburne..... 1

Dodge..... 2 Sibley..... 1

Douglas..... 2 Steele..... 1

Farrell..... 2 Swift..... 1

Fergus..... 2 Tazewell..... 1

Frederick..... 2 Todd..... 1

Goodhue..... 2 Trempealeau..... 1

Grant..... 2 Union..... 1

Gregory..... 2 Wabasha..... 1

Hennepin..... 2 Watonwan..... 1

Houston..... 2 Winona..... 1

Isanti..... 2 Yellow Medicine..... 1

Jefferson..... 2 Jackson..... 1

Kimberly..... 2 Kandake..... 1

Lac qui Parle..... 2 Washington..... 1

Lake..... 2 Wadena..... 1

Lake Superior..... 2 Wright..... 1

Le Sueur..... 2 Yankton..... 1

Lincoln..... 2 Lincoln..... 1

Martin..... 2 Lincoln..... 1

McLeod..... 2 Lincoln..... 1

McLeod..... 2 Lincoln..... 1

McLeod..... 2 Lincoln..... 1

McLeod..... 2 Lincoln..... 1

STILLWATER MESSENGER.

VOL. XIX--NO. 52.

STILLWATER, MINN., FRIDAY, AUG. 28, 1874.

WHOLE NO. 988

WHAT TO DO WITH IT.

There is in the State treasury a large amount of money belonging to the common school fund, and the men whose duty it is are anxious to make judicious investments of the same so the interest arising therefrom may be sufficient, together with the revenues from other sources, to keep the educational interests of our State in a flourishing condition. Some portion of these funds is derived from the sale of school lands, on which a small payment is required in cash, the remainder being 7 per cent. interest. This interest also is almost all together with the State school tax, to pay all drafts on the common school fund, and the officials would be glad to invest all the loanable funds at the same low rate of interest. But the law regarding the investment of the same is such that they shall be loaned only on Minnesota, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri or United States bonds, not less than five per cent. interest.

It is reported that at a recent meeting of the Governor, Auditor and Treasurer, who by law are authorized to invest the funds arising from the sale of school lands, it was decided to invest them in Minnesota bonds. These officials are not authorized, even if they were so disposed, to invest these funds except in United States or certain State bonds, and we would suggest an amendment to the statute giving the proper persons authority to make investments which shall be just as safe and more remunerative, and at the same time keep the money in the State.

The farmers of Minnesota are paying from 12 to 36 per cent. interest on millions of dollars brought from older and richer States. In a large majority of cases these loans are secured by mortgage on real estate sometimes worth three or four times as much as the amount loaned therefor. At the same time the school fund of the State is loaned large sums of money at 6 per cent. on poorer security. We would advocate, then, the policy of authorizing the Governor, State Treasurer and State Auditor to invest the money authorized to be loaned, in mortgage on real estate, in a manner somewhat as follows: When an application is made for a loan it shall be the duty of the State Auditor or his deputy to visit the applicant, carefully examine the security offered, and the reasonable value thereof, and also obtain an abstract of title of the land, and report to the committee above named. If the land is valuable, and free from incumbrance, the committee may at their discretion authorize the Auditor to draw a check on the Treasurer for such an amount of the loanable funds as they may deem safe to loan on the security offered. The expenses of surveying for their own pecuniary benefit, or that they would allow the school fund to suffer loss through lack of judgment or sound business discretion on their part.

The advantages to be reaped by the farmers of this State should such a policy be inaugurated are manifold. In addition to enabling farmers who offer good security to obtain money at a living rate of interest, it keeps the money in the State, thereby lessening the demand for foreign capital at ruinous rates of interest. Besides if a low rate of interest at which money can be obtained is thus established by the State, it will do more to prevent exorbitant loans than all the laws that could be incorporated in our statute book.

Another suggestion, made by one of our attorneys relative to this matter, though its adoption would not confer as great benefit upon the people of the State, is worthy of attention. It is that where school districts desire to borrow money for the erection of school buildings to allow the school fund commissioners to loan them on their bonds such amount as the yearly interest on which shall not exceed the sum received by such districts from the school fund appropriation for the year previous to the application. This in treatment would be perfectly fair, and would confer the same benefits on the school districts that would accrue to the people by the adoption of the policy suggested by us. To illustrate: The new school building and grounds in this city cost about $85,000, which was obtained by the sale of bonds bearing 12 per cent. interest, or $3500 every year. The district receives from the State appropriation about $4000 yearly, so that if the policy suggested were in force the State school fund would be increased (double what it now receives) or if it had received but 6 per cent. (the rate at which most of its loans are negotiated) our tax payers would have half the interest now paid ($1700), while the money would be kept in the State. The school fund would not be in danger of suffering loss, as the district would receive from the appropriation much more than the amount of the interest.

While we do not doubt that the investment of these funds in bonds of other States is practically safe we contend that a higher rate of interest could be realized by the investment in the ways above indicated, with no danger of loss. At the same time the direct and indirect benefit that may be derived by the people of the State by the adoption of this policy would be of great importance.

The Republican Congressional conventions thus far held this fall have with very rare exceptions failed to nominate those Representatives who voted for the salary steel, while the Democratic conventions the reverse is the rule. Will the Republicans of this district commit the fatal act of re-nominating a man who jeopardized the success of the party by voting for the steel, and then defend the party by voting against its repeal, when it was unanimously condemned at the State convention last year?

Our New York correspondent still continues his warfare on Beecher, exhibiting almost as much malice as Titton himself, though a large majority of the unprejudiced minds of the country are disposed to concede Beecher's innocence unless more credible testimony than that of Titton, Moulton or Woodhall can be produced to show his guilt.

One of Averill's admirers in St. Paul remarked to me a few days ago that "A man must be a few—d—l fool to oppose Averill because he voted for the salary increase." What a lot of d—l fools there are in this district.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

A REV. SCHUMEDER—CRIME—HUSKES—CHIEF TITTON—WEATHER—TRAINING SCHOOLS FOR WOMEN.

NEW YORK, AUGUST 24.

CLERICAL SCANDAL.

The worst one has recently come to light in Jersey City, a very popular clergyman named Glendening being the alleged cause. A beautiful girl named Mary Pomeroy, an orphan, residing with her cousin, was engaged to be married to Glendening, who was her pastor. Some weeks ago she confessed to her aunt that she was about to become a mother, and after long entreaty named Glendening as the father of her child. She stated that when her cousin became known to her she entreated Glendening to fulfill his promise, but he put her off. Finally he came to her one night and told her that she was ruined to him, and that she must give him a paper receiving him of any connection with the matter. He threatened her with a pistol, and she accepted. Getting this paper, he refused to marry her. Last week the child was born, and on Monday poor Mary Pomeroy, ruined and heart-broken, died. On her deathbed she made the statement she had made before. The funeral was one of the largest ever known in Jersey City. The beauty and sweet nature of the girl, and the peculiar circumstances of her death, created a terrible excitement. If Mr. Glendening is not lynched, it will be because the wiser and cooler men, who would have law take its proper course, are in such majority as to be able to control the mob. But what punishment can the law inflict upon such a man? He is as truly the murderer of Mary Pomeroy as though he had shot her.

And when one thinks of such occurrences, and thinks of the inadequacy of the laws, grave doubts arise as to whether such laws are not rather good institutions after all. At that can be done with the Rev. Glendening to compel him to support the child.

THE CARNEVAL OF CRIME.

The morning papers, one morning last week, afforded cheerful reading. There was the circumstantial account of the funeral of Mary Pomeroy, the killing of a girl by a bander, the drunken carman, three children were found starved, two bodies were dragged out of the East River, besides which there were outtings, stab-bings, and shootings without number. Has the hot weather which we are now enjoying, the killing of men and drive them to drink? Certain it is that crime is more force in its manifestations now than during the pleasant spring and autumn or the cold winter.

clear glasses, an accurately cooked chop, and cups of faultless coffee or charming tea. Here, every morning from half-past six to half-past seven, working girls find a generous cup of coffee and bread enough for their breakfast at a charge of five cents. This food, of nice quality, is a very grateful provision for a class of shop girls who find lodging in tenement houses at the rate of fifteen cents per night, and have no other way of finding meals, unless they poison themselves with the nauseous compounds of low eating of the worst description. The building is connected with a laundry, where nice work is done at low prices in the city. This is made a success by the very reasonable price of charging according to the work done, at the rate of fifty cents a dozen for small pieces and a dollar for large ones. The establishment is well patronized, and both laundry and restaurant are designed from the start to be self-supporting. There is no reason why a business plan so much needed should not be successful, and I have mentioned this somewhat in detail, as similar establishments are sure to be opened in all towns of any size. The free reading room receives a report of a dozen or more wealthy and benevolent women, among whom Mrs. Sheridan's name is prominent, as it is sure to be in such kindly enterprises. A concert is to be given at Long Branch to-morrow, under the patronage of distinguished ladies, in aid of the fund for the relief of the poor. The location is, by all, to add a department for training cooks, under the charge of a French chef, where not only servants can be fitted for the entire range of a cook's duties, but where housekeepers who want to know how to make a mayonnaise, or to dress mushrooms, or to prepare a Devonshire cream, by paying a small sum, learn what they want without taking a whole course. Very quietly this training school is taking its place among the valued institutions in New York, and will solve the servant girl question by putting a class of intelligent and respectable attendants in the market when the daily ones will find themselves in demand, and have to submit to decent regulations.

PIETRO.

Which Were False?

Titton and Moulton are now indiscreetly at work in endeavoring to destroy the character of Mr. Beecher. The following report of an interview between the reporter of the New York Tribune and Rev. S. B. Halliday, assistant pastor of Plymouth church, will partially settle the question. When Mr. Beecher went away I had not decided whether I should call upon Mr. Moulton or not, but afterward I concluded to do so before that night. On that afternoon I called at Mr. Moulton's house, but he was not at home. The next morning (Thursday) I called again about 10 o'clock. I went in my name, and in a few minutes Mr. Moulton came into the parlor, and shaking hands, said: "I know what you want, Mr. Halliday, but I can't talk with you this morning. I've been up all night, and must go to New York as soon as I get my breakfast." Afterward, as we walked to his door, he said: "How absurd a thing it would be for Plymouth church to notice this scandalous case, as between Mr. Beecher, whose life for 25 years is before them, and the accusation of those bad women? Mr. Moulton then promised to see me in the evening at seven, but that time he was again not at home. I called upon him on Wednesday morning and again in the evening, but could not catch him at home. On Saturday he sent me word that he would be at home that evening half past nine; went to his house at once on the receipt of his message, and was shown into his study at the top of the building, changing the customary greeting, changing the customary greeting.

[Continued on Fourth Page.]

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

NOTICE.

All persons having claims against the State Prison are requested to present their bills in DUPLICATE at the end of each month.

J. A. REED, Warden.

N. F. SCHWARTZ.

Manufacturer and dealer in Boots and Shoes, lower Main street.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Washington.

In the matter of the test and testimony of August Peters, late of said county deceased.

An instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, having been deposited in the clerk of said county, and it is ordered, that the probate of said instrument be heard and determined at said county, on the 19th day of September next at 10 o'clock a. m., at the Court House in the City of Stillwater.

J. A. REED, Judge of Probate.

Dated Stillwater, Aug. 14, 1874.

County of Washington, State of Minnesota.

I, J. A. REED, Judge of Probate, do hereby certify that the within and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the last will and testament of August Peters, late of said county deceased, as the same appears from the records of said county.

J. A. REED, Judge of Probate.

Dated Stillwater, Aug. 14, 1874.

County of Washington, State of Minnesota.

I, J. A. REED, Judge of Probate, do hereby certify that the within and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the last will and testament of August Peters, late of said county deceased, as the same appears from the records of said county.

J. A. REED, Judge of Probate.

Dated Stillwater, Aug. 14, 1874.

County of Washington, State of Minnesota.

I, J. A. REED, Judge of Probate, do hereby certify that the within and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the last will and testament of August Peters, late of said county deceased, as the same appears from the records of said county.

J. A. REED, Judge of Probate.

Dated Stillwater, Aug. 14, 1874.

County of Washington, State of Minnesota.

I, J. A. REED, Judge of Probate, do hereby certify that the within and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the last will and testament of August Peters, late of said county deceased, as the same appears from the records of said county.

J. A. REED, Judge of Probate.

Dated Stillwater, Aug. 14, 1874.

County of Washington, State of Minnesota.

I, J. A. REED, Judge of Probate, do hereby certify that the within and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the last will and testament of August Peters, late of said county deceased, as the same appears from the records of said county.

J. A. REED, Judge of Probate.

Dated Stillwater, Aug. 14, 1874.

County of Washington, State of Minnesota.

I, J. A. REED, Judge of Probate, do hereby certify that the within and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the last will and testament of August Peters, late of said county deceased, as the same appears from the records of said county.

J. A. REED, Judge of Probate.

Dated Stillwater, Aug. 14, 1874.

County of Washington, State of Minnesota.

I, J. A. REED, Judge of Probate, do hereby certify that the within and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the last will and testament of August Peters, late of said county deceased, as the same appears from the records of said county.

J. A. REED, Judge of Probate.

Dated Stillwater, Aug. 14, 1874.

County of Washington, State of Minnesota.

I, J. A. REED, Judge of Probate, do hereby certify that the within and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the last will and testament of August Peters, late of said county deceased, as the same appears from the records of said county.

J. A. REED, Judge of Probate.

Dated Stillwater, Aug. 14, 1874.

County of Washington, State of Minnesota.

I, J. A. REED, Judge of Probate, do hereby certify that the within and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the last will and testament of August Peters, late of said county deceased, as the same appears from the records of said county.

J. A. REED, Judge of Probate.

Dated Stillwater, Aug. 14, 1874.

County of Washington, State of Minnesota.

I, J. A. REED, Judge of Probate, do hereby certify that the within and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the last will and testament of August Peters, late of said county deceased, as the same appears from the records of said county.

J. A. REED, Judge of Probate.

Dated Stillwater, Aug. 14, 1874.

County of Washington, State of Minnesota.

I, J. A. REED, Judge of Probate, do hereby certify that the within and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the last will and testament of August Peters, late of said county deceased, as the same appears from the records of said county.

J. A. REED, Judge of Probate.

Dated Stillwater, Aug. 14, 1874.

County of Washington, State of Minnesota.

I, J. A. REED, Judge of Probate, do hereby certify that the within and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the last will and testament of August Peters, late of said county deceased, as the same appears from the records of said county.

J. A. REED, Judge of Probate.

Dated Stillwater, Aug. 14, 1874.

County of Washington, State of Minnesota.

I, J. A. REED, Judge of Probate, do hereby certify that the within and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the last will and testament of August Peters, late of said county deceased, as the same appears from the records of said county.

J. A. REED, Judge of Probate.

This singular comparison. He answered that it appeared to be made by Mr. Titton to illustrate more forcibly how utterly improbable the scandal was. It was an eccentric simile used for emphasis. Mr. Titton was apt to employ strange similes to make his meaning and language more forcible and emphatic. Mr. Titton's contradiction of the scandal was an explicit and emphatic language could make it, and he protested that he had been utterly ignorant of its existence until it was published. He reiterated his denial, and the scandal was the topic of conversation for over half an hour. In his conversation Mr. Titton frequently intimated that he had causes of grievance toward Mr. Beecher, though not of the character related in the scandal. "Endeavored," said he, "to induce him to make some specific charge, or indicate the nature of his grievance; but he would not do so. He emphatically asserted Mr. Titton's innocence, and said: 'She is as pure as the light; go to Mr. Beecher, he will tell you that she is as pure as gold—or as an angel. I do not remember positively which of these expressions he made use of any more.' Titton talked rapidly, and neither Mr. Bell nor myself could learn the nature of the alleged wrong by Mr. Beecher. At length, becoming tired of his hints and innuendoes, I pressed him strongly for some specific declaration of wrong done by Mr. Beecher. Then Mr. Titton said: 'You go to Frank Moulton; he will confirm what I say, and will show you documentary evidence of my charges.' Mr. Titton urged me strongly to see Mr. Moulton, and then Mr. Bell asked if he could not talk with me. Mr. Titton answered: 'No; he will not want to see you, but will Mr. Halliday, as the assistant pastor of Plymouth church?' Mr. Titton reportedly said that his communications to me had been in confidence, and I did not feel at liberty to mention more of the interview than merely to contradict the scandal upon his authority.

"After Mr. Titton had gone, Mr. Bell and myself discussed the propriety of calling on Mr. Moulton. I expressed the opinion that if Mr. Moulton had any information or documents, he held them in a confidential relation. Therefore I felt great reluctance to question him about them. Mr. Bell urged that I ought to ascertain from Moulton by Mr. Beecher why they would leave to substantiate Mr. Titton's insinuations. When Mr. Bell went away I had not decided whether I should call upon Mr. Moulton or not, but afterward I concluded to do so before that night. On that afternoon I called at Mr. Moulton's house, but he was not at home. The next morning (Thursday) I called again about 10 o'clock. I went in my name, and in a few minutes Mr. Moulton came into the parlor, and shaking hands, said: 'I know what you want, Mr. Halliday, but I can't talk with you this morning. I've been up all night, and must go to New York as soon as I get my breakfast.' Afterward, as we walked to his door, he said: 'How absurd a thing it would be for Plymouth church to notice this scandalous case, as between Mr. Beecher, whose life for 25 years is before them, and the accusation of those bad women? Mr. Moulton then promised to see me in the evening at seven, but that time he was again not at home. I called upon him on Wednesday morning and again in the evening, but could not catch him at home. On Saturday he sent me word that he would be at home that evening half past nine; went to his house at once on the receipt of his message, and was shown into his study at the top of the building, changing the customary greeting, changing the customary greeting.

[Continued on Fourth Page.]

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

NOTICE.

All persons having claims against the State Prison are requested to present their bills in DUPLICATE at the end of each month.

J. A. REED, Warden.

N. F. SCHWARTZ.

Manufacturer and dealer in Boots and Shoes, lower Main street.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Washington.

In the matter of the test and testimony of August Peters, late of said county deceased.

An instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, having been deposited in the clerk of said county, and it is ordered, that the probate of said instrument be heard and determined at said county, on the 19th day of September next at 10 o'clock a. m., at the Court House in the City of Stillwater.

J. A. REED, Judge of Probate.

Dated Stillwater, Aug. 14, 1874.

County of Washington, State of Minnesota.

I, J. A. REED, Judge of Probate, do hereby certify that the within and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the last will and testament of August Peters, late of said county deceased, as the same appears from the records of said county.

J. A. REED, Judge of Probate.

Dated Stillwater, Aug. 14, 1874.

County of Washington, State of Minnesota.

I, J. A. REED, Judge of Probate, do hereby certify that the within and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the last will and testament of August Peters, late of said county deceased, as the same appears from the records of said county.

J. A. REED, Judge of Probate.

Dated Stillwater, Aug. 14, 1874.

County of Washington, State of Minnesota.

I, J. A. REED, Judge of Probate, do hereby certify that the within and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the last will and testament of August Peters, late of said county deceased, as the same appears from the records of said county.

J. A. REED, Judge of Probate.

Dated Stillwater, Aug. 14, 1874.

County of Washington, State of Minnesota.

The Messenger.

FRIDAY, AUG. 28, 1874.

LOCAL NEWS.

The new set of bell was hung this week. This bell weighs 1500 pounds, and cost when hung about $650.

Those new Globes are splendid at $950.

C. H. Nash informs us that he expects to furnish gas by the 15th of September, or a few days thereafter.

The next annual address at the Washington County Fair will be delivered by Gov. Davis on the 1st of October.

Latest styles of Neckties.

975-1f L. HERRICK & SON.

The roughs who created a disturbance at Muckenhausen's last night, were taken to the police station, and fined from $5 to $10 each.

The Stillwater boat club has been practicing with considerable diligence this week in preparation for the contest next Monday with the Red Wing club.

A splendid line of cloths for our custom trade just received.

975-1f L. HERRICK & SON.

The brick warehouse in the rear of Hoopes' building is almost completed. Hoopes & Singsley will have it full in a few days, together with the store room in front.

At the meeting of the Board of Education last evening, Miss McCortney of Hudson was elected a teacher in place of Miss Olson, resigned.

The boiler room was ordered to be flagged and the roof painted.

I am now receiving my Fall Stock of Clothing and will sell cheaper than ever.

975-1f S. SELLECK.

Mr. and Mrs. David Bronson, Otto and Mrs. David Bronson, Mrs. Schulerburg and family, and Mrs. J. E. Schulerburg left on Thursday for Duluth. Today they are enjoying a trip on the lake, and tomorrow they will return.

Prof. S. S. Taylor of St. Paul, one of the proprietors of this paper, who so narrowly escaped death two or three weeks ago at the hands of an assassin or burglar, has nearly recovered, much to the gratification of his numerous friends.

If you want a good fit and garments made up by the best tailors in the city, call on

975-1f S. SELLECK.

A letter from our Denmark correspondent informs that on the 10th, J. C. Henry took four sacks of wheat by lightning. Our correspondent also says that wheat is turning out a much lighter crop than was expected even after harvesting commenced.

The second nine of the St. Croix base ball club played a match game with the first nine of the city yesterday on the grounds in front of the city hall, and succeeded in sending 13 men around the circle while their opponents shinned around 22 times.

Largest assortment of Hats and Caps ever brought to the city.

975-1f L. HERRICK & SON.

There are at this writing ten prisoners at the county jail, if we make out the number being larger than ever before. The cells being full, three inmates are compelled to sleep in the corridor. A night watch has been employed for additional security.

As John Lyons was playing with his little girl yesterday afternoon, standing on his hand at some length, she fell to the floor, striking on her head with such force as to lose consciousness. Restoratives were applied, and in a short time she revived, and is now considered out of danger.

For the purpose of making room for my full stock, I am offering my stock of Ladies' and Misses' Dress Shoes at greatly reduced prices.

N. F. SCHWARTZ.

985-1f Lower Main Street.

John S. Walker of Minneapolis, the Supreme Representative of the State Lodge, Knights of Pythias, was authorized yesterday morning to give $40, from the effects of a runaway. Mr. Walker was well known throughout the State, and a large circle of friends in this city will mourn his unhappy death.

The brewers are not as happy as they were. The resolution adopted by the Council last week looking to amending the liquor ordinance so as to fix the brewers' license for retailing beer at $40 was rescinded by the Mayor, it being in conflict with Sec. 2 of Chap. 4 of the city charter, which provides that the liquor license shall never be less than $100.

577-1f Sore throat, bruises, sprains, cuts, sores and pains everywhere yield to Death to Pain. If you have not tried it, do so, then speak well of it or take back your money.

The ceremony of dedicating St. John's German Lutheran church in the town of Oak Dale, six miles from this city, will take place next Sunday, at 9:30 A. M. Rev. C. Gram of Milwaukee will preach and assist in the ceremony. A special train will reach here late from St. Paul at 9 o'clock, to accommodate a large number of friends who desire to participate in the exercises of the occasion.

Let no Republican in the city be absent from the ward exercises next Thursday evening. Remember, your votes at these meetings are of no small importance, and we hope there will be a full attendance of Republicans at the primaries.

Selleck's cutter always makes good fits.

985-1f

Some 500 or more of our citizens, mainly Catholics, went to Hudson on the steamer Wyman X. last Sunday, to participate in the exercises of laying the corner stone of the new Catholic church. Bishop Heiss of La Crosse officiated at the ceremony. A priest from Milwaukee, whose name we have forgotten, delivered an impressive address, which is spoken of by those who heard it in the most complimentary manner. St. Michael's parish of this city realized nearly $200 net profit by the excursion.

Conspiracy Frustrated.

On Sunday last Charles Johnson, a stone cutter, for nearly four years past employed during the summer by Seymour, Sabin & Co. at the Prison, was arrested on a charge of conspiring with the escape of convicts.

He had a preliminary examination on Monday when he was bound over, and in default of bail was sent to jail. His attorney, J. N. Castle, at once applied for a writ of habeas corpus, which was granted, and Johnson will be released on bail to-day.

The testimony elicited at the examination showed that Johnson had received from the Post office addressed to "Charles Dyer," a fictitious name, and delivered them to convicts for whom they were intended, the letters being from ex-convicts who were scheming to liberate some of their friends.

Johnson's Dictionary.

The most valuable and popular work published, sold by subscription only. J. B. Baskin, M. D., sole agent for Washington County.

985-1f

The August meeting of the Lumbermen's Board of Trade was held yesterday. Present—President Hoopes, E. S. Brown, Secretary pro tem, Messrs. Durant, Hersey, B. F. Hersey, D. H. Nelson, C. N. Talboys, Hanson, Harrison, Staples, Fox, Jackson, Bony, Venz, Stewart, Jos. McMillan, Matthews, Sam. Tozer, D. Tozer, A. Seymour, Mackay, Anderson, Munch, G. Nelson, J. G. Stewart, Ed.

Voted, To fix the price of scattering logs for the ensuing month at $10 and $6.50.

The Secretary reported the cost of the St. Croix drive at $2106.25, and that the logs driven had been assessed at $1 per M.

A general discussion was had of the condition of the lumber trade, the unanimous sentiment being that the over production of logs was the greatest cause of the unprofitable prices, and that a reduction of supply for the ensuing year is necessary, and a resolution offered by Mr. Brown was adopted, that the entire cutting on the St. Croix and the Louisville and Jonathan can be reduced to not exceed one hundred million feet.

Mr. Staples commented that a general meeting of persons interested in the log and lumber trade in Minnesota be held for the purpose of taking steps to prevent an overstock of logs next season.

A meeting of lumbermen was called for next Wednesday, Sept. 2. (Call published elsewhere.)

E. S. Brown, E. W. Durant, and C. N. Nelson were appointed a committee to draft resolutions to be submitted at this meeting.

E. S. Brown was instructed to confer with the Minneapolis lumbermen, asking them to unite in a call for a State convention of lumbermen at an early day.

Adjourned till Sept. 2, at 2 P. M.

Something New.

We invite the careful attention of all Book Agents to our new system of canvassing, and can prove to your satisfaction that you can double your sales by adopting it. We want 100 agents immediately. Good responsible men and women, no matter whether you have ever canvassed before or not, we can prove it will pay you handsomely. For particulars address

THOMAS PROTHRO, Gen'l Agent, Austin, Minn. Or, PUBLISHER LAWRENCE, Stillwater, Minn.

City Council.

TUESDAY EVENING, AUG. 18.

Present—Pres. Seymour, Messrs. Anderson, Jassoy, Hausman, Moore, Deraght, Tozer, and Tozer.

It may not be generally known, but it is nevertheless a fact, that every resolution adopted by the Council must be approved by the Mayor, or it becomes of no effect and void.

A complaint was made by the City Engineer, for a short season of chicken shooting. He will return next Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Root left on Monday for Burlington, Iowa, with the remains of their infant son, who is to be interred at the home of Mrs. Root's parents.

Hon. J. L. McDonald, the prominent candidate for the Democratic Congressional nomination in the Second District, was in the city yesterday.

Prof. P. E. Walker and Fred Sabin represented Marine in this city yesterday.

W. H. C. Palmer, J. H. McCourt and A. C. Clendenning, all of Taylor's Falls, were in this city a few days ago.

Notice to St. Croix Lumbermen.

There will be a meeting of the Lumbermen of the St. Croix Valley held at the office of the St. Croix Boom Corporation on Wednesday, Sept. 24, at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of electing delegates to attend a convention of Minnesota Lumbermen and Dealers to be held the 24th of September at the city of Minneapolis and also to elect two more Representatives to attend the National Lumbermen's Convention at East Saginaw, Michigan, Sept. 15.

It is desirable that there be a general attendance of our lumbermen as matters of importance affecting the lumber trade will be considered at said meeting.

Stillwater, Aug. 27, 1874.

C. N. Nelson, Seymour, Sabin & Co., Hersey, B. F. Hersey, Staples, Fox, Jackson, Bony, Venz, Stewart, Jos. McMillan, Matthews, Sam. Tozer, D. Tozer, A. Seymour, Mackay, Anderson, Munch, G. Nelson, J. G. Stewart, Ed.

Voted, To fix the price of scattering logs for the ensuing month at $10 and $6.50.

The Secretary reported the cost of the St. Croix drive at $2106.25, and that the logs driven had been assessed at $1 per M.

A general discussion was had of the condition of the lumber trade, the unanimous sentiment being that the over production of logs was the greatest cause of the unprofitable prices, and that a reduction of supply for the ensuing year is necessary, and a resolution offered by Mr. Brown was adopted, that the entire cutting on the St. Croix and the Louisville and Jonathan can be reduced to not exceed one hundred million feet.

Mr. Staples commented that a general meeting of persons interested in the log and lumber trade in Minnesota be held for the purpose of taking steps to prevent an overstock of logs next season.

A meeting of lumbermen was called for next Wednesday, Sept. 2. (Call published elsewhere.)

E. S. Brown, E. W. Durant, and C. N. Nelson were appointed a committee to draft resolutions to be submitted at this meeting.

E. S. Brown was instructed to confer with the Minneapolis lumbermen, asking them to unite in a call for a State convention of lumbermen at an early day.

Adjourned till Sept. 2, at 2 P. M.

Logs and Lumber.

On the 23rd inst. 23,000 logs were floated down the river.

Sales foot up since our last report some three million five hundred thousand feet.

Four strings of Gardner & Baker's short Yellow River logs, sold by Durant & Wheeler to W. D. Smith, Keithsburg, at $11 50 at Stillwater ready for pilot.

Twenty-four strings of short logs mixed, Walker, Judd & Yeats, lots sold by Durant & Wheeler to Chambers Bros. & Co., Muscatine, six strings to J. A. Durbin's Norway, sold by Durant & Wheeler to St. Croix Lumber Company.

Six hundred thousand feet sold by A. L. Gillespie to Hersey, Bean & Brown.

The stock of higher grades of logs has been considerably reduced during the month, though there remains on hand several lots of Yellow and Cram, and a few strings of Totogatic logs.

The stock of first class long white pine is unusually light.

Lengths of long Norway, two rafts would exhaust the stock on hand. Of common long logs, white pine and Norway there is an abundance. The light demand for longer grades of short logs during the summer leaves a large quantity now on the market.

Prices remain unchanged on the more desirable logs; holders are willing to make some concessions on inferior stock.

The floating up of the boom master's book shows that one hundred and sixty-five million feet of logs have passed through the boom and been delivered to the owners. It is not possible at this writing to state accurately the quantity of logs now on hand in the lake and mill booms. Somewhere near one hundred and twenty million feet have been sealed by the Surveyor General.

SHIPPERS.

include one raft per steamer Helen Mary, shipped by Hersey, Bean & Co. to Atine & Co., Fort Madison.

One raft of lumber shipped by Hersey, Bean & Co. to Hamilton.

One raft lumber shipped by Isaac Staples to Hamilton; both floating rafts, Barlow and Smith, pilots.

One raft sent forward by Durant & Wheeler, per steamer Stillwater, consigned to Musser & Co., and Chambers Bros. & Co., Muscatine, and W. D. Smith, Keithsburg, Illinois.

The Louisville and Jonathan came in yesterday, and will go out to-day with logs to be tied up for market at Fulton or Cat Tail Bay.

Three strings long small Norways sold at $7 per M by Durant & Wheeler to Munch & Nelson for railroad ties.

LOADING OPERATIONS ON THE ST. CROIX SINCE 1855.

The following statistics of the log cutting on the St. Croix and tributaries have been compiled from the St. Croix Boom Corporation books by E. W. Durant. As will be seen it includes all logs cut on the St. Croix waters during the past 13 years, viz: from 1855 to 1874.

|                   |               |
|-------------------|---------------|
| 1855 to 1864..... | 325,000,000   |
| 1865.....         | 108,017,316   |
| 1866.....         | 85,000,000    |
| 1867.....         | 85,000,000    |
| 1868.....         | 87,000,000    |
| 1869.....         | 157,012,000   |
| 1870.....         | 136,149,933   |
| 1871.....         | 144,530,000   |
| 1872.....         | 158,548,019   |
| 1873.....         | 166,163,628   |
| 1874.....         | 167,170,925   |
| Total.....        | 1,665,531,937 |

Logs and lumber not sealed

by boom corporation.....

Log cut and not lying above boom.....

Total.....

1,718,531,937

The late rains on the upper St. Croix have caused a rise in the lake of two feet.

Personal.

Robt. M. Anderson, Teller at the Lumbermen's National Bank, left on Monday for Le Mars, Iowa, a distance of 200 miles, for a short season of chicken shooting. He will return next Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Root left on Monday for Burlington, Iowa, with the remains of their infant son, who is to be interred at the home of Mrs. Root's parents.

Hon. J. L. McDonald, the prominent candidate for the Democratic Congressional nomination in the Second District, was in the city yesterday.

Prof. P. E. Walker and Fred Sabin represented Marine in this city yesterday.

W. H. C. Palmer, J. H. McCourt and A. C. Clendenning, all of Taylor's Falls, were in this city a few days ago.

Butterfly's Dog.

I said: "Mr. Monilton, I have no curiosity to gratify, and do not wish to see anything that you may have, nor have you to tell me anything that you may know, unless you desire to do so; but Theodore Tilton called upon me on Monday morning, and in presence of Mr. Bull, had a long talk about the Woodhull scandal, in the course of which he made many insinuations against Mr. Beecher."

Mr. Monilton replied with great warmth, denouncing the Woodhull scandal as utterly baseless and not possessing to a least shadow of truth. He spoke in the highest terms of Mr. Beecher, and said that he was one of the purest and grandest of men. He said that it was perfectly absurd, with his life of 25 years before our community and the world to even notice the accusations of such women as were his accusers. For nearly half an hour Mr. Monilton fairly hissed on his contempt for the scandal, the woman who wrote it, and the people who would heed it. He spoke far more excitedly than Mr. Tilton had done. At length I said: "Mr. Monilton, Dr. Merrill (who has since died) informed me that Donna Barnes, the publisher of the 'Liberator,' told him in his (Mr. Barnes') parlor that 20 men had been sent to prison on this charge, and that you invariably replied: 'This is dirty matter; you had better let it alone. The more you stir it the more it will smolder.' To this Mr. Monilton excitedly replied: 'It is false. It is no such thing. Very few come to me, and to those who do I speak as I have to you. Men go to my partners and ask them about it. Why don't they come to me? They are a set of damned cowards.' (I quote his exact language.) I made an explanation of this affair, continued Mr. Monilton, 'which I think was satisfactory to Mr. Baxter of Dr. Storrs' church, a gentleman whom I respect; but such sneaks as Dwight Johnson, I despise.' Dwight Johnson, a member of the insurance business, a deacon in the church, and was a candidate for Mayor against Mr. Hersey years ago. I then said: 'Mr. Monilton, you have disposed of the Woodhull story as well as I can under stand, but by the appearance of charges, but the immediate and insinuations of Mr. Tilton, for confirmation of which he refers me to you?'

Mr. Monilton was at that moment leaning on his right hand, the left side of his face toward me, his chin resting on the table. Straightening himself up, he brought his fist down upon the table with a crash, and said: 'I know as much of this whole affair as any one does, and I know that Mr. Beecher is guiltless. Mr. Halilway, I am not a member of your church, but my wife is; do you suppose that I thought that Mr. Beecher was a bad man I would allow him to sit as a guest at my table with me, as he does frequently?'

After some further conversation Mr. Monilton said: 'Why, Mr. Halilway, Mr. Tilton is friendly to Mr. Beecher. When Mr. Beecher came back from campaigning in New Hampshire the morning of the election, Mr. Tilton was sitting on the sofa just where you are, Mr. Beecher came in at that time, and took a seat near him, and grasping Mr. Beecher's hand in both his, expressed the intensest sorrow at the appearance of the scandal, and avowed his entire ignorance in regard to its publication, and offered to do anything in his power to destroy the effects of the calumny, and set down and wrote a card for publication, which, however, by advice of counsel, was never given to the public. I denied the scandal; Theodore had denied it; Mrs. H. B. Stanton had denied it; all named in it have denied it except Paulina Davis, and she in Europe. Now, what more can be done?'

In the entire interview with Mr. Monilton his manner was as decided as that of any man with whom I ever spoke; I want to say also that Mr. Monilton treated me contemptuously, and impressed me with his superiority. Up to the Tuesday morning of that week when I first met him, Mr. Monilton was an entire stranger to me; we have never since met, and I have never since thought against his purity. As for Mr. Tilton, I believe that he has been a lie to the life to shield the misdeeds of her husband from the world. I could not have believed that any man could have done as Theodore Tilton has. Nothing seems sacred, and his last act of degradation, in permitting the publication of his wife's pure, flowing, uncut hair by his malicious accusations against Mr. Beecher.

Butterfly's Dog.

I have had charge of Butterfly's dog this summer. I was not very anxious to take care of him, but I am under obligations to Butterfly, and when he asked me to keep the animal for him while he went to the seashore, I didn't like to refuse. Butterfly brought him around and turned him into the cellar, where he could amuse himself hunting for rats. That was on the 12th of June, and after that time only two

Local Scenic Views.

A large selection of Local Scenic Views of Stillwater and vicinity for sale at 982 STAPLES DOBBERYS' YS.

For Sale at Cost.

I offer my entire stock of Pianos, Organs, Sewing Machines and small Musical Instruments at cost. Now is the time when you will ever have to purchase a Sewing Machine or Piano or Organ for your wife or daughter.

Any Person desiring to engage in this business in Stillwater will do well to give me a call.

S. B. BLOOMER.

Metropolitan Notes for This Week.

Friday, 21, 69° 70° 70°

Saturday, 22, 69° 70° 70°

Sunday, 23, 69° 70° 70°

Monday, 24, 69° 70° 70°

Tuesday, 25, 69° 70° 70°

Wednesday, 26, 69° 70° 70°

Thursday, 27, 69° 70° 70°

Friday, 28, 69° 70° 70°

Saturday, 29, 69° 70° 70°

Sunday, 30, 69° 70° 70°

Monday, 31, 69° 70° 70°

Tuesday, 1, 69° 70° 70°

Wednesday, 2, 69° 70° 70°

Thursday, 3, 69° 70° 70°

Friday, 4, 69° 70° 70°

Saturday, 5, 69° 70° 70°

Sunday, 6, 69° 70° 70°

Monday, 7, 69° 70° 70°

Tuesday, 8, 69° 70° 70°

Wednesday, 9, 69° 70° 70°

Thursday, 10, 69° 70° 70°

Friday, 11, 69° 70° 70°

Saturday, 12, 69° 70° 70°

Sunday, 13, 69° 70° 70°

Monday, 14, 69° 70° 70°

Tuesday, 15, 69° 70° 70°

Wednesday, 16, 69° 70° 70°

Thursday, 17, 69° 70° 70°

Friday, 18, 69° 70° 70°

Saturday, 19, 69° 70° 70°

Sunday, 20, 69° 70° 70°

Monday, 21, 69° 70° 70°

Tuesday, 22, 69° 70° 70°

Wednesday, 23, 69° 70° 70°

Thursday, 24, 69° 70° 70°

Friday, 25, 69° 70° 70°

Saturday, 26, 69° 70° 70°

Sunday, 27, 69° 70° 70°

Monday, 28, 69° 70° 70°

Tuesday, 29, 69° 70° 70°

Wednesday, 30, 69° 70° 70°

Thursday, 31, 69° 70° 70°

Friday, 1, 69° 70° 70°

Saturday, 2, 69° 70° 70°

Sunday, 3, 69° 70° 70°

Monday, 4, 69° 70° 70°

Tuesday, 5, 69° 70° 70°

Wednesday, 6, 69° 70° 70°

Thursday, 7, 69° 70° 70°

Friday, 8, 69° 70° 70°

Saturday, 9, 69° 70° 70°

Sunday, 10, 69° 70° 70°

Monday, 11, 69° 70° 70°

Tuesday, 12, 69° 70° 70°

Wednesday, 13, 69° 70° 70°

Thursday, 14, 69° 70° 70°

Friday, 15, 69° 70° 70°

Saturday, 16, 69° 70° 70°

Sunday, 17, 69° 70° 70°